Bravo On With The Show traveled to the city of Brotherly love on October 1 & 2 to host a two-day workshop at the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts. Bravo was delighted to partner with Comcast Cable in Philadelphia to bring this important theater arts initiative to young people in the metro Philadelphia area. Over 120 eager children ages 10-17 participated in the highly anticipated event. Philadelphia welcomed Bravo and it's Broadway theater troupe with open arms. Deputy Mayor, Bonnie Grant, presented a Mayoral proclamation that stated October 2, 2002 to be know as Bravo On with the Show day in Philadelphia.

Bravo Network and Comcast Cable proudly presented a donation check to NetworkArts, an educational organization dedicated to expanding children's opportunities to express themselves; to explore science, art, and the humanities; and to create art that permanently transforms their communities. To date, NetworkArts' programs have culminated in the creation of over 75 major ceramic tile mosaic murals, with the participation of over 12,000 children in Philadelphia and Chester, Pennsylvania, and Camden, New Jersey. The mosaics are the final product of a rich variety of educational programs, and are designed to last for a lifetime and express the curriculum the students have learned. They are viewed by hundreds of thousands of people annually.
